

1) KAYLAND FIRE WOMAN BOOTS

Is periwinkle the new black? These Italian-made kicks are built around a woman's foot for maximum comfort. They sport Vibram soles, waterproof liners, and PrimaLoft insulation for burly protection from the cold. Now that's hot. [$310; kayland.com]

2) DOLCE & GABBANA SUNGLASSES

Glam rock meets snow style in these wraparound shades. The one-piece plastic lens (reminiscent of '70s ski goggles) offers prime UV protection while the sturdy, metal-studded frame can withstand a face plant—or a night at the discoteca. [$170; dolcegabbana.it]

3) ITALIAN CASHMERE-LINED GLOVES

After a day on the slopes, ditch the bulky ski gloves and slide your fingers into these babies. Soft cashmere inside and Italian lambskin outside make the perfect insulation for gripping a glass of Chianti at the ice bar. [$85; leatherglovesonline.com]

4) SIERRA DESIGNS OBERLAND JACKET

You'll appreciate the look and the performance of this quilted, toasty, Italian-designed jacket. The tailored fit with elastic cuffs and high collar cuts down on wind, whether you're cruising the corso on a Vespa or the groomers at Vail. [$120; sierradesigns.com]

5) TECNICA ATTIVA MODO 12

The Modo ("way of life" in Italian) delivers convenience, performance, and featherbed comfort—all in a sexy, four-buckle, Italian-crafted package. Plus, the Rapid Access cuff makes slipping into après mode less of a chore. [$475; tecnicausa.com]

6) PIEROTUCCI TOSCANELLA HANDBAG

Straight outta Florence, this baby's-bum-soft leather handbag is vegetable-tanned, so it's as eco-friendly as it is classy. A removable zippered purse secures valuables, and the reinforced handles withstand years of use. [$219; pierotucci.com]
